

WAINWRIGHT ARENA SCENE OF BIG HOCKEY TOURNAMENT

On Wednesday and Thursday of last week, the local hockey boys staged a three-team tournament; Wainwright, Edmonton and Viking being the contestants. The whole affair was splendidly patronized by the fans, and to say the least the games were all interesting and the onlookers sure got full value for their money.

In the opener, on Wednesday evening, Wainwright met Edmonton in the first battle, and this game proved to be the most outstanding of the whole series.

The Edmonton boys, re-inforced by three of Chauvin's best players, looked rather formidable, and as the Wainwright team is composed of youngsters (most of whom are playing their first year in senior hockey) it appeared as though this bunch of visitors would have a walk-over. However the local lads were equal to the occasion and carried off the honors by a score of 5-4.

The arrangements of the tournament were that each team should play two games, with the team making the most goals throughout the series taking first money.

The Edmonton-Wainwright game was sure a hummer! At the outset it was not long till Bissett slipped through and scored on an individual effort, but after that the local players played carefully and heady hockey, and no more scores resulted in the first frame.

In the second period, Harry Lepper stepped out and rushed the length of the ice. He was checked to the boards by Bissett, but managed to whip the rubber over to Aykroyd at center, and the latter promptly slammed it into the twine.

Bissett and W. Christie rushed, and on a nice bit of combination play scored, Christie getting the counter. Sparks came down fast and eluded the Wainwright defence. He shot from the blue line and the puck bounded off Hunter's pads but Sparks had followed down the rink, and catching the rebound this artist notched another counter for Edmonton.

A few moments later, Spence picked up the disc near the Wainwright goal, corked-screwed his way through until he only had Bissett to pass. With the nearest bit of stick-handling he dodged the mighty Con. and coolly following Withersell from the mouth of the crease, scored the feature of the entire series; the fans going into ecstasies of delight over the pretty work.

In the third period, Fred Lepper scored on a pass from Spence, and shortly after his brother Harry had followed down the rink and shot again found the net handily. Bissett then went through and scored unassisted this time tying up the game; but just before the final bell Fred Lepper again bailed the twine, this shot putting the game on ice for the locals to the tune of 5-4.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON
On Thursday afternoon, Viking and Edmonton crossed sticks in a real good game which the latter team won by a score of 3-2.

In the first period, Hannon of Viking came down fast, and eluding Bissett slapped in the first counter. Bissett showed a tendency to rough it, and he and Monty Hoskins were handling each other some severe jolts. Bissett collided with one of the Viking players, and he went down hard and had to be carried off the ice, Slim Wheeler coming on to replace him. Shortly after this McNaughton scored for the western team.

In the next period Bissett came back and scored the only counter of the frame on a pass from Bill Christie. In the third, the Viking goalie was penalized for shoving, but the boys managed to hold the fort till his return between the posts. However, Bissett and Christie combined for another counter Bissett getting the score, after Bill had made the pass from the boards.

Hilker and Sparks were banished for roughing it, and Bissett once more visited the cooler for shoving Monty Hoskins his 'bunch of fives'. Sawyer finished the scoring in the game by a truly lone effort, and Edmonton pulled out victorious on the long end of the 3-2 tally.

The game was somewhat marred by rough play, and seven penalties were handed out, Bissett being the chief offender. Bissett it will be conceded is one of the best players on the life, but his work is frequently spoiled by his temper. He can hand out the bumps as good as anyone, but can't take his own with a smile!

THURSDAY EVENING

In the evening game on Thursday, Viking and Wainwright conducted the argument before one of the largest crowds ever stuffed into the big rink, and the local boys fairly carried the western team off their feet. The scoring was almost in one, two, three order, and the Wainwright stick artists did pretty much as they pleased—thus proving their stamina, despite their recent entry into senior circles. The final total of the game read 12-3. The game started out well, and it looked as though Wainwright would have their work cut out for them, but time told!

Monty Hoskins opened the scoring by a solo effort, and two minutes later made it a repeat offering. From that time on, however, this player was a marked man, and was seldom allowed to get through despite his repeated hard attempts.

Spence got third tally and Fred Lepper started the puck from Hoskins and racing down the side boards slammed in another to tie things up. In the second period Aykroyd worked through unassisted and made it a counter all alone. Torgy was sent to the pen for tripping, and a minute later Hannon followed him into dance for the same offence. Three more goals were rung up for the locals during this time, Fred Lepper getting two and Alderman one.

In the third period Hannon went through and notched another tally for Viking, and from that time on it was a regular merry-go-round for the Wainwright boys.

Aykroyd got two in succession, then Fred Lepper scored. Spence got another and again Fred bulged the twine; and just to let the fans know that he was really in the game Dave Lepper scored a last goal for good measure. Spence was on his way to the cooler when the final bell rang.

The final scores of the tournament read—Wainwright, 17; Edmonton, 7; Viking, 5. A feature of the game was Fred Lepper's scoring of seven of the 29 total goals. Aykroyd and Bissett were tied with four each, while Spence got the three. All three goalies played masterful games, and at times saved some wonderful shots.

Mr. Earl Cork refereed all the games, while Mr. Washburn made a splendid play in the first two games, his place being taken by Bill Christie for the last encounter.

The tournament was truly a huge success, and if the weather "stays put" we should see another such before the break-up. Much credit is due to the Wainwright boys for the showing they made, as both Edmonton and Viking teams were strengthened with outside support, while the locals are all "home-brews".

MISS E McLUHAN TO GIVE RECITAL IN UNITED CHURCH

Reference to the advertising columns gives information that Miss Elsie McLuhan, the talented elocutionist and reader is to give another of her charming "evenings" in the United Church on Friday, March 18th at 8.15. Commenting upon this lady's appearance in Edmonton recently, The Journal says—"Miss Elsie McLuhan, talented Canadian elocutionist of Winnipeg, who is no stranger to Edmonton audiences was presented in concert on Friday evening under the auspices of Central United Church choir in the Church. Miss McLuhan's selections were varied, combining humor and serious thought. There is no doubt but that Miss McLuhan has won for herself a warm place in the hearts of her numerous audiences which is quite justified."

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of Grizzly Bear Municipal District was held in Ganton School on Saturday February 19th, there being a good attendance in spite of country trails being drifted by previous days storm.

CANADIAN WHEAT TAKES PREMIUM IN BRITISH MARKETS

That Canadian wheat commands a premium in the Old Country was the information received at the offices of the Alberta Wheat Pool, from D. L. Smith, sales manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, at Winnipeg.

"We have today received the following message from Broadbent, The Canadian abroad in fair quantities. No. 1 Northern sold at $17.4 c.i.f., United Kingdom ports and tough No. 2 Northern at $16.4. This compares very favorably with American wheats and Argentinians, which are quoted at $16.1 and $15.50 respectively."

Mr. Smith adds, "About a week ago the Grain Trade News broadcast an editorial stating that Canadian wheat was not securing a premium over other world's wheat. Surely this statement coming from such an authority as Broadbent can be considered reliable and endorses the statement previously issued from this office. It also seems to show that the Grain Trade News is not quite familiar with the relative values of wheat from the various exporting countries sold in the Old Country markets."

MRS. G. SIDDALL HOSTESS AT MERRY EVENING PARTY

At a merry party held last week with Mrs. G. Siddall as hostess, a large number of friends enjoyed the social evening when bridge was the big attraction. The prize winners of the evening were Mrs. F. Horn, Dr. H. Wallace, Mr. A. Adams and Dr. W. Adams. A delightful lunch was served at the close of play.

Mr. B. Fraser, one of our old townsmen who formerly had the Patterson store was in town last week on a flying visit.

W. W. YEAGER IS EXALTED HEAD OF NEW SHRINE ORDER

Marking an epoch in the history of fraternal orders in Wainwright, an unusual ceremony took place on Sunday last when 60 members of the Dik-an-Groto, of Edmonton, came down from the city by special car, to initiate a dozen of the local Masonic brethren into the mysteries of the "Mystic Order of the Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm," the ceremonies being performed in the Elite theatre.

By this means the nucleus of a Grizzly club was formed, the objects of which is the promotion of good fellowship; this degree of the order, which is rapidly expanding in all Canadian cities, being organized for the promotion of all good works. Prophet W. Yeager was chosen as "Monarch's representative" and he was presented by Presiding Monarch M. Wright, P.M., with the badge of his new office, and the local brothers who took the new degree were Bros. F. Moses, E. Wilson, J. Whittle, J. Braccigirle, J. Robinson, W. Gano, F. Stott, A. Lissimore, T. Billing, and J. Fuller. Thanks are due to the original members of this degree in town for their efforts in forming the class, these including Hjos, D. Mathers, J. Allen, A. Forbes, W. Yeager, and J. Alderman (the latter brother being tireless in his efforts to this end), all of whom must feel elated at the success attained.

Before departing from town the visiting Monarchs were entertained to a sumptuous banquet at the "Wainwright hotel," during which hearty words of thanks were accorded them for their work on behalf of Masonry; journeying as they did at their own expense for the purpose of this institution and installation.

Those who comprised the party were: Col. Castains, P.M. and Prophets T. Pink, sitting monarch, H. Templeman, H. Clancie, C. Witham, G. Blanchett, T. Champion, D. Greenless, D. McDonald, J. Calhoun, N. Shields, R. Noble, E. Graham, H. Washpote, D. Greame, Dr. Sneddon, H. Campbell, C. Allen, G. Channell, M. Hannon, W. Greig, W. Kennedy, H. Hudson, A. Scott, A. Daery, P. Hearne, A. Richards, W. Patterson, T. MacPherson, M. Wright, and W. Fields; the last two gentlemen spending a couple of days here over the week end to complete the necessary arrangements for the ceremonial. They all returned to the city in their private car attached to No. 1.

As a fitting souvenir of the occasion, the whole gathering "had their picture taken" at the base of the war memorial clock, by Prophet Yeager, and this has turned out a splendid 'shot' and will no doubt be highly prized as depicting the very first Wainwright "Prophets."

FIRST NATIONAL BRIGHT ROMANCE "SYNCOPIATING SUE"

Corinne Griffith proves herself the champion of the romantic working girl in "Syncooping Sue," her latest comedy vehicle, which comes to the theatre on Friday and Saturday. Having won an enviable reputation in previous pictures for the manner in which she portrayed stately, dramatic and emotional roles, Miss Griffith recently turned to another type of picture and showed a talent for portraying the typical New York working girl.

In "Classified" Miss Griffith glorified the stenographer. In "Mlle. Modiste" she was a struggling dressmaker, and now in the same vein comes "Syncooping Sue," with Corinne cast as a con-plunger, said by New York reviewers to be even better than her two previous comedy successes.

Miss Griffith enacts the role of a romantic New York store piano player who yearns for a career on the stage.

This ambition and her love for a penniless orchestra drive her into circumstances which, while awkward and perplexing to the stage-struck girl, nevertheless prove highly amusing and entertaining to an audience.

Tom Moore, of the famous Moore trimmerette, is Miss Griffith's leading man in "Syncooping Sue," and the remainder of the cast is of equal high order.

CANADA WANTS OWN LABOR BODY DOMINION WIDE

Montreal—Fusion of a number of Canadian unions into one purely Canadian labor organization that will assist the American-affiliated international unions from their supremacy in the Dominion is, according to reports in local labor circles, likely to be a live question at the convention of the Canadian Federation of Labor, with 200 delegates, which will open here on March 15.

One of the prizes in the Canadian labor world is the privilege of having an official selected as one of Canada's representatives at the sessions of the international labor conference at Geneva. Under the agreement creating that conference, each country is represented by a delegate chosen from its largest labor organization. Up to the present the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, which embraces all unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has held the largest membership in Canada and has supplied the Canadian delegates to Geneva.

It is some twenty-seven years since the split came in labor ranks and in opposition to the Trades and Labor Congress there was formed the Canadian Federation of Labor, free from foreign affiliations. In the year gone by a number of independent unions have sprung up and at present are making their own way; an instance is the Brotherhood of Railwaymen.

On a number of occasions, efforts have been made to gather up these separate labor entities.

AUTO DRIVERS—NOTICE
Corporal F. Moses of the A. P. P. has received instructions to prosecute any person operating a motor vehicle after March 1st, without license. These instructions will be carried out without exceptions. This includes chauffeurs and livery licenses.

REPORT SHOWS WAIN. OIL GIVES HIGH TEST GAS.

A section of an exhaustive report issued by Dr. Hume, dominant geologist, just to hand, dealing with the analysis of the oil in the Wainwright field gives considerable information.

The report states that 55 per cent of gasoline of high anti-knock properties can be extracted from Wainwright crude oil and from 40 per cent to 50 per cent of a similar quality anti-knock gasoline can be obtained from the bituminous sands of the McMurray area, by using the Dobbs cracking process.

Samples of both Wainwright crude and McMurray bituminous sands were sent for testing purposes to the Universal Oil Products Company of California, and the above results were secured in official tests made by that company.

The "cracked gasoline," says the report, "has very high anti-knock properties and is the equivalent in this respect of any gasoline which is now being produced commercially in any part of the world."

FEDERAL GOV'T MAKE MOVE TO PROCEED WITH POST OFFICE

Mr. Jas. M. Stevenson, M.R.A.I., C. of Calgary, who is the resident architect for the public works department of the Dominion government, paid a visit to town last week, in the interests of the erection of the new post office which the Federal government have already allotted a first appropriation of $15,000.

The site for this building was procured by the Ottawa authorities some years ago, and Mr. Stevenson, while here getting facts and figures as to the business handled by the several government departments represented here, such as post office, customs, 1000 Buffalo park, S.S.B., etc.

From what we can gather, the visitor gleaned all available information from every possible source, as well as the town and district, and he believed was duly impressed with the importance of Wainwright as a real center of activity from every standpoint.

We learn also that it is the intention of Postmaster Lally to assist the project for a new government post office in every way, although he has received permission from the authorities to shift the location of the present office if he thinks it to be desirable.

SUNSET AND SUNRISE
Lo! the sun sinks in the west,
Sinking slowly now to rest;
All day long across the sky
His hurried course has galloped by;
Now he sinks with a thankful heart,
Glad that he has done his part.

While we sleep on this earth below
He's retracing his footsteps tired and slow,
He is shining on another land,
Led onward by a mighty hand;
He never sinks for e'er to rest,
Only from sight—down in the west.
He makes the children happy again,
The children of far-off Australia's plain.
And when he is most shining there,
He's shining on the world—elsewhere.
Little we think that he was made,
By the One—our pathway laid.
Lo! the sun rises in the East,
Upon the hours of the day to feast;
He shines upon the world away,
Shines from beginning to end of day,
And when he sinks at last from sight,
That time of life is the night.

THE BLACK
DIAMOND EXPRESS

by DARRYL FRANCIS ZANUCK

Copyright by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"The Black Diamond Express," starring Monte Blue, is Warner Bros. picture of this novel.

Phil found his father in a black sausage mood.

"You have neglected every piece of work entrusted to you," he said. "You have piled up debts—in spite of your allowance. I have never refused you money—but you have not come to me —you have let your bills run on until your creditors have had to appeal to me."

You have squandered money on women—women of a sort I'm ashamed to mention. You have bought them jewels, maintained them in luxury.

You have gambled. You have played the profligate in every possible way. But—there is going to be an end to it. I warned you the other day.

Now I will be specific. Unless you give me your word to reform your life immediately, and prove it, what is more by marrying some good woman

I am through."

"But father—look here—I can't just walk out and ask some good woman to marry me."

"You'll have no difficulty in finding a wife. For that matter, I hear you have paid a good deal of attention to Arthur Ruskin's daughter. Ask her to marry you. Bring me word that she has consented, and I will pay your debts, provide you with a home, see to it that you continue to live as my son should. I do not mean to force you—if there is some other girl, of equally good family and reputation—

"Oh I like Viola as well as any girl

I know! But—

"I don't want any buts—I want to hear no argument."

"Well, all right. It's just—well, it seems a little hard on her. I like Viola but I don't love her. Not that way."

"Marry her and you'll come to love her. Liking is better for marriage than love very often, my boy. Love makes trouble. Two people who really like one another don't quarrel—people in love always do."

"Well, I'll ask her. I don't know that she'll have me."

"The girl's not a fool! Of course she will have you."

James Hardin said that with perfect sincerity. It didn't occur to him that any girl who was the daughter of a comparatively poor man would hesitate to become his daughter-in-

law. He had some reason for feeling so; rich men come, not unreasonably to be a little cynical about human nature.

"We'll see," said Phil morosely. "Oh

I had lunch with John Ballard."

"Good! I'm glad you have done at least one thing you were instructed to do."

"You needn't rub that in. Father

I've said that I'd get married. I told

John we wanted him in our legal department."

"I thought you were going to wait to see more of him before you actually

invited him?"

"Well that was the idea, but something came up and gave me an opening. He was complaining that he didn't have money enough to marry."

"It's the only way to be safe and independent."

"That's the sort of advice older people always hand out!" said Phil.

"Don't you think young men know that, sir? I do!"

"They may know it, but they don't act on it," said Mr. Hardin. "The trouble with you youngsters is that you want to eat your cake and have it too. And you can't. The only way to get money in the bank is to keep from spending it on things you want."

"Well, if you ask me, it's a case of the vicious circle," said Phil. "The only reason that I want money is to be able to buy the things I want. And seemingly you can't have both."

"You can if your sensible," said his father. "Because I didn't at your age—because I was willing to go without things and save my money. Well—what did he say? What did you offer him?"

"What I was told to—twenty thousand a year."

"Did he accept?"

"Not yet. But I've an idea he will.

He said he wanted to think it over."

Mr. Hardin chuckled.

"That's what they all say! He wants to find a good excuse for taking our money. Well—he will. He didn't refuse them! Even once—for the sake of saying he had?"

"No John's not like that, sir. He'll say yes or no when he says anything."

Mr. Hardin said that with perfect sincerity. It didn't occur to him

that any girl who was the daughter

of a comparatively poor man would

hesitate to become his daughter-in-

law. He had some reason for feeling

so; rich men come, not unreasonably

to be a little cynical about human

nature.

"We'll see," said Phil morosely. "Oh

I had lunch with John Ballard."

"Good! I'm glad you have done at least one thing you were instructed to do."

"You needn't rub that in. Father

I've said that I'd get married. I told

John we wanted him in our legal department."

"I thought you were going to wait

to see more of him before you actually

invited him?"

"Well that was the idea, but something

came up and gave me an opening. He

was complaining that he didn't have money enough to marry."

"Ah!" said Mr. Hardin. "That's the joint in his armor is it? Well it's one that's been the end of many a good man in the past! If I were giving a young man advice it would be to see that he always had money in the bank extremely hard to borrow money. The N. Y. and V. C. is trying, even now, to float a big bond issue. We need money to take over competing shipping lines and to extend our own motor bus lines.

We've lost a lot of business to these independent bus lines lately, and we have got to get it back. We can't afford just now, to put money into new equipment and new rolling stock—which is what is needed to eliminate accidents. We're going all the care we can, with the resources at our command."

"I see," said Phil. "Well—if I do marry I hope I'll be let 'em on these questions of policy more. I'll enjoy my work more if I felt I was more than an office boy."

"Your time will come," said his father.

"I'm growing old. I don't mean to be hard on you my boy. I have your own best interests at my heart when I act as I am doing now."

"Oh, I know that, sir," said Phil. "I guess I've been pretty wild. But I will try to turn over a new leaf—I give you my word. And—I'll ask Viola tonight to marry me."

He was as good as his word. He and Viola Ruskin were good friends and had been for a long time. His surprise when he asked her to marry him; she couldn't conceal her surprise.

"Phil," she said. "Are you really in love with me?"

"I don't know," he said honestly. "I think I'll tell you the whole story

Viola."

And surprisingly enough, he did.

"I'm fond of you," he said. "I've never liked any girl as well as I do you. I'd rather spend all my time with you than any other girl I've known. But I'm not sure that I'm in love with you."

"I'm glad you've said what you said," she said. "I don't know how to answer you. Phil, I'm fond of you too, like you very much. But I'm not in love with you. I think I'm in love with some one else—I'm in love with some one who doesn't love me."

"Oh, I guess anyone you're in love with is in love with you, all right," said Phil laughing.

"I don't think so," she said. "But I know soon. I don't want to answer you until I do. Phil, if I find he isn't, why then, if you want me knowing what I've told you, then I'll marry you."

"I'll wait as long for my answer as you want me to, Viola," he said. "And we'll always be friends anyway. Won't we, no matter how it turns out?"

"Always," she said. "I like you a lot

Phil."

inconsistent events. John Ballard,

GIVES THE FACTS

We are in the happy position of being able to commend the Toronto Saturday night for publishing an authoritative, comprehensive and fair review of oil development in this province. It reprints an official summary of drilling operations and results prepared by Dr. G. S. Hume, of the Geological Survey of Canada. This review, as would be expected, presents facts assembled by a competent man.
It differs widely from an article that appeared in the Toronto publication some time ago.

Naturally it does not suggest that the oil area of the western section of the continent stops at the U.S.-Canada border. The oil output of the producing wells in Alberta is correctly given and there is a hopeful tone respecting Wainwright and other areas that are under investigation.

Saturday Night has done the right thing in publishing Dr. Hume's carefully prepared summary. This report may not please the scoffers who prefer to believe that there is no oil in Alberta but it will prove interesting to Canadians who want to see the natural wealth of this country developed even if it happens to be in the west, and not in Ontario.

THE USELESS
"GOOD CITIZEN"

There is a certain type of man in every community who poses as a good citizen. He breaks no laws, lives morally, pays his honest debts and is never tangled up with the law in any manner. But he lives of himself, by himself and for himself se-clusively. When the call is issued for volunteers to put across a community movement and give a boost he never answers. When calamity has befallen people in certain localities and charity flies to their rescue, he is never one of their number.

When money is needed for public enterprise his name is never on the list. When he sees some neighbor stuck in the mud he detours to avoid him. When his services are needed for the public welfare he is never able to give them.

In fact, if he stood on the shore and saw the ship of state sinking, he would never offer to throw a line.
And if all mankind was fashioned from this same kind of chap what would happen?

There would be no progress in municipal affairs, no development in the community, no churches, no institutions for the unfortunate, and no improvement in our manner and mode of living.

The Baby Teeth

How many should there be? Ten little fingers and ten little toes—making twenty in all—and there you have their number. Easy to remember, isn't it?

And when should you begin to look for them, About the six or seventh month.

And which comes first? As a rule, the lower front tooth, the central in-cisor.

So after all baby's fretfulness he has a brand new tooth or two—so white and so sound they look, that you never give a thought to future tooth troubles.

Then the other eighteen or nineteen white-coated little 'millers' will follow at somewhat regular intervals until Sonny is two years old, when he should have his full temporary set.

These are the temporary or deciduous teeth—being known also as the 'milk teeth', from which you will be aware, of course, that they won't be retained right through adult age. They should all remain in place, however, until about the seventh year, when, through the natural process of shedding, they commence to be lost.

Then, as the time approaches for the eruption of the second set, unless the first teeth are sufficiently separated in front to allow one or two thicknesses of blotting paper between them, the arches have not properly expanded, and the second set is certain to be crowded and irregular.

In such a case, the family dentist should always be consulted.

—Since Sonny is going to lose these small teeth in good time, and get a nice new set, why bother to care for them?

Well, little Sonny does not want a tooth-ache any more than do you—and for several other good reasons, of which more to follow.

Of course, as we said, they will be lost eventually; then why bother to care for them?

First, there is the inevitable decay, as a result of neglect, with its attendant tooth-ache; and it may be that, because of this destruction and pain, the tooth is lost prematurely through extraction and, as a sequence, the little jaw does not develop at this point as it would have done with the tooth left in place.

Second, there is the other danger, that with the too early and meddlesome extraction of the temporary molars, there is the grave possibility of bringing away, or otherwise destroying the developing bicuspid, which frequently lies within the spreading roots of the former tooth.

Third, there is the reverse condition where the temporary tooth is retained too long because of interference, through pulp disease, with the natural process of shedding, thus causing the succeeding tooth to erupt out of place, or not at all, either of which is bad.

From any or all of these causes, little Sonny is going to have some crooked teeth in his second set; and a misaligned jaw, which means a facial deformity of greater or less degree.

Fourth, it is further true that neglect of these 'baby teeth' may bring about more serious results than equal neglect of their successors, since decay will make much more rapid progress in them than in the larger and better developed teeth of the second set.

Above all, remember, that these little teeth are to serve Sonny throughout the formative period, which includes the years of his greatest growth and development, and that his growth will depend largely on his ability to properly masticate his food, which ability is exactly proportional to the soundness of his teeth.

BULLETIN FROM PROVINCIAL GOVT.

Government Telephones.
The Alberta Government Telephone system, showed a profit of $270,000 in operation in the year 1926 according to the annual report of the Department. There was an increase of revenue over 1925 of more than $454,000. There are now 20,413 rural subscribers and 36,517 subscribers on the urban system, making a total of 56,930 subscribers for the entire system, an increase of some 500 over the previous year.

Importance of Registered Seed.
Alberta farmers are urged by the Government to obtain registered seed wherever possible, for their grain crops. The importance of using the best quality of seed obtainable is

BAKE YOUR OWN BREAD WITH

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

The standard of Quality for over 50 years

emphasized in statements made by the Minister of Agriculture for the province, the officials of the Seed Departments, and of the Seed Growers Association.

A striking illustration of the value of good seed has been obtained in an experiment which the University has been conducting during the past three seasons. Samples of seed wheat from the University were sent to various places in the province from south to north. The harvested seed was returned and graded, and one sample ran at least one grade better than the average samples coming from the same districts. Why can't all farmers grow wheat like this? has been asked. The answer is "So they could easily, if they would use as good seed."

Budget Balanced.

The Alberta Government has balanced its accounts for the year 1926 with a small surplus. It was announced by Premier Brownlee to the Legislature this week. The surplus will not be as large as at first estimated owing to the added costs of the general election.

It is proposed to change the financial year of the Government to end March 31st.

Creamery Short Course.
A three weeks' creamery course is now being offered jointly by the University and the Department of Agriculture, to commence Tuesday morning, March 8th, 1927, in the Department of Dairying, 140 South Laboratory Building, University of Alberta. The course is intended, primarily for persons with some practical experience in creamery work. There will be no tuition fee. Arrangements may be made for room and board at the time of registration.

Although this is to be a three weeks course, the programme of lectures and practical work will be so arranged that creamery men who have not time to take in the full course may plan a shorter stay for the study of the lines of work that interest them most.

An outline of the programme is now being prepared and will be furnished upon request.

Bonus to Beet Growers.
An additional bonus of 50 cents a ton has been made payable to sugar beet growers in southern Alberta, by the Raymond sugar factory. This brings the net price to growers up to $6.75 a ton.

Railway Development.

There are now a total of 5,061 miles of railway lines in the province, compared with one thousand miles in 1905, when the province was formed.
In the operation of the Alberta Government line to McMurray, there was an improvement of nearly $30,000 in the operating finances of the line, compared with the previous year. The increased business came chiefly from the development of the salt industry at McMurray. The other government line northwest from Lacombe showed an improvement of nearly $30,000 in its operating finances over the previous year.

Amusement Tax.

Over 200,000 dollars, was paid by the people of the province in amusement tax during the past year; of this amount, the four cities paid something like $156,000.

The gasoline tax brought $432,700 during the year, a considerable increase over the previous year. The automobile license brought $1,134,000 there being a total of 64,129 licenses an increase of more than 11,000 over 1925.

Forage Crop Train.

Excellent meetings continue on the crop train now touring the central Alberta. Next week the train will commence its tour of C. N. R. lines, starting at Beiseker on March 1.

Dairy Pool Expands.

Approximately forty of the creameries in operation in the province will be included in the dairy pool for the coming season. It is announced by the pool officials. This is nearly half of all the creameries operating in the province. The pool is handling about eighty-four per cent. of the dairy business in the northern half of the province.

INCUBATION

Since the early hatched pullets supply most of the winter eggs it is very desirable to start the incubation period some time in March.

The successor failure of the whole year's work may depend upon the efforts during the incubation season.
If using the hens, have the nests made so that they may be closed. The hen usually does better if she is allowed to be out only once per day to eat and drink. Grain grit and water should be plentiful when she is off. If the hen does not leave the nest to feed as soon as the nest is opened, she should be gently lifted to the floor. A dust bath of wood shavings or dust is a luxury to a broody hen and in addition she should be dusted occasionally with a reliable insect powder.

At the first signs of pipping, close the nest making sure that the hen has a full crop and drink. Do not molest until the hatch is complete. Remove shells and unhatched eggs after a reasonable time and leave hen and chicks on nest until all chicks are 36 hours old.

If the incubator is used follow the instructions of the manufacturer and use a machine that has a good reputation. Usually a cheap incubator is dear at any price.

The best place to run an incubator is in a basement or cellar if well ventilated. Temperature is usually more even and the eggs are not so liable to receive a serious jar. A little moisture in the atmosphere is an advantage.
When hatching starts do not open the incubator for at least 24 hours.
It will be necessary to turn the lamp down as soon as the chicks begin to come out to allow for the heat arising from the chicks.

REINDEER INDUSTRY IN ALASKA BRINGS LARGE RETURNS

More than 350,000 reindeer, distributed in 110 herds, are now being kept in Alaska, according to the department of agriculture, and the average gross increase is between thirty-three and forty-five per cent annually, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Within recent years, the raising of the animals has become an important industry. They are known as "three-way" producers, useful for food, clothing and for transportation, and in some sections, are supplanting the dog teams for hauling. The cost of producing averages only about $1 a year for each reindeer, while prices of $10 or $12 are realized in the butcher markets. Between 1918 and 1925, nearly 2,000,000 pounds of reindeer meat were exported from Alaska. The government is endeavoring to improve methods of control and management of herds and the grazing facilities. It is said that the country can afford pasture for at least 3,000,000 animals.

THE EXAMINER'S WEEKLY REVIEW OF PROV. MARKETS

CATTLE

BEEF—Edmonton market reports that receipts have been too light during the past week to establish a good trade. The better classes of cattle found a fairly good demand and moved at prices that were fully steady to a shade stronger as compared with those of last week. Choice heavy steers $6.50@6.75; choice light $6.50@6.75; $4@6.50; medium $5.25@5.75; common $4@5. Choice heifers $5.50@5.75; good $5@5.50. Choice cows $4.50@4.75; good $4.25@4.50; medium $3.75@4; common $3@3.50; canners $2.25@2.75. Choice bulls $3.75@4; medium $3@3.50; canners $2.25 up. Choice calves $8@10; common kinds $3@5. FEEDERS, STOCKERS—Feeder steers found the market fairly active again this week, and they brought from $4@5; stock steers $3.50@4; stock heifers $2.50@3.50; stock cows $2.50@3.50.

HOGS

Edmonton market reports no change, a quotation of $11 for thick smooths still prevailing with the usual premiums on selects and improved thick smooths.

SHEEP

Edmonton market conditions have not shown any change since the last report.

GRAIN

Market at Winnipeg has been a little more active during last couple of days. Yesterday price advances were registered owing to a good trade volume being worked in which exporting houses were credited with having done considerable buying.

CREAM—BUTTER—MILK

CREAM—Slight increase in receipts is reported by most of the creameries but the percentage as yet is not very large. CREAMERY BUTTER—Make is expected to be on the upward trend from now on but the increase will be slow for a while yet, until more cows begin to calve. Some sections of trade report that they don't think supply is quite large enough to easily handle demand yet. Price shows no change from last week. Coast market quiet as about 10,000 boxes of New Zealand butter is expected to arrive there tomorrow. Eastern markets also believed to have a good supply of New Zealand product on hand. DAIRY BUTTER—Slight change in prices of this product, fancy table quoted at 35c, No. 1 30c and No. 2, 25 and 25c. Offerings on the light side for bulk of cream is being shipped to creameries. MILK—Price on Tuesday, March 1, was cut to $2.40 per 100ths, basis 3c.

POULTRY—EGGS

POULTRY—Receipts of live and fresh killed poultry continue to be light, with the result that considerable stuff is being drawn from storage to fill orders. The bulk of the trade is being done with hotels and restaurants, although the Jews are buying a number of birds to fatten, as well as housewives taking quite a few. Chicken arriving are very strong but find moderate demand. EGGS—Some sections report receipts to be slightly lighter this week, but others state they are getting quite a few. The demand is good and stocks are cleaning up readily. No change reported in prices during the week.

HAY—GREENFEED—OATS

HAY—Offerings have been fairly liberal during the past couple of weeks, and farmers needing supplies are being advised to obtain them now before the usual spring shortage commences. The quality of receipts has not been so very good lately owing possibly to the bottom of stocks being reached in many cases. GREENFEED—Deliveries not over large but as demand is light this causes no price change. OATS—Light deliveries are hindering trade but prices are holding steady.

The Black Diamond Express

The whole course of many lives can be changed. The history of a city, a state, a nation, can be shaped for all future time in ten years.

In the ten years that followed the day on which John Ballard heard of Viola Ruskin's engagement to Phil Hardin much of significance and importance, had come about.

First of all, in John's memories, was Viola's marriage. He hadn't seen her, he had contrived to be away, on business, at the time of her wedding, and though Phil had asked him, more than once, to come to see them, he hadn't been willing to trust himself to see the woman he loved as another man's wife.

John Ballard had gone on, doing his work, quietly, unemotionally, efficiently. His practice had grown, slowly, but with a sure, safe growth. He had come to have a reputation as a dogged, hard fighting lawyer; who, once he took a case, never let go; a man never beaten until the final appellate court had ruled against him. Poor folks came to know that they could trust him to guard their interests; that he could be swayed by no influence, no hope of great rewards.

Thanks to the interest of George Warren and the Ventnor Sun, his newspaper, which was the dominating journal of the state, John's name began to be well known. His more important cases were fully reported; he came in, from time to time, for friendly comment on the editorial page. More important and richer clients came to him. He was still careful in his choice of his clients he would take no corporation business of a certain type, though much of it was offered to him, and Phil Hardin's offer to him was frequently renewed, and indeed, greatly increased. He met Jordan a year or so after his talk with Phil, and that great man asked him, frankly why he would not come to the N.Y. and C.V.

"I remember you," Jordan said. "I liked your looks while you were in college. I told you to come and see me. You never did. Why not?"

"I didn't want anything from you, Mr. Jordan," said John.

"Most people do," said Jordan. "It would have been a relief to see a young man who didn't. But I sent for you. I caused an offer to be made to you. You refused it. It's been renewed. I'm prepared to renew it now—and to let you name your own figure. I want you—and when I want a man I always get him."

"You won't get me, Mr. Jordan. I—well, I'm not for sale."

Jordan stared at him.

"Be careful," he said. "I'm anxious to be your friend. Don't turn me into your enemy. I'm a good friend—but a very bad enemy."

"There's no reason for you to be my enemy—I'm not yours," said John, quietly.

"Any man we want who is not for sale is against us—sooner or later," said Jordan.

"I can't speak for the future," said John. "Is there any reason that you know why I should be against you, Mr. Jordan?"

Jordan stared at him, his eyes drawn together in a frown.

"There are many reasons why, for your own sake, you should take good care not to be," he said, grimly. "I'm telling you this as a friend."

John was vaguely troubled by that talk. He had no reason, he knew, to be afraid of Jordan. Yet the man's power, his ruthlessness, his conviction of his own strength, were daunting things to contemplate. John told George Warren of his talk with the financier, and Warren nodded.

"He's a damn' clever man," he said. "He does me the honor to dislike and fear me. He's made a good deal of trouble for us. More than once we've found shipments of paper that we needed curiously delayed in reaching us. So much so that we've stopped having paper brought by freight at all—it comes to us in motor trucks from

HINDERLAND FURS TO PAY FEDERAL TAX

Ottawa—For the first time in two hundred years, a tax is to be placed on furs from the Northwest Territories. Within a few days Hon. Chas. Stewart, minister of the interior, will introduce a bill into the house of commons to empower the commissioner-in-council of the Northwest Territories to impose a tax per pelts on furs.

FARMER-OWNED ELEVATORS

At almost a thousand different points in the Prairie Provinces there are Farmer-owned Elevators. The overwhelming verdict of Western farmers is that Farmers' Elevators are absolutely necessary to the country, and that Farmers' Elevators improve conditions where they are established.
